

Scheduled Personal Property

Protecting your cherished items. Eliminate your deductible, expand your coverage and rest easy.

Look around your house. What are the items that are most precious to you? Although your homeowner's insurance covers the contents of your home there are specific limits of coverage on certain items such as jewelry, paintings, antiques, collectables, musical instruments and silverware. Depending on the level of protection you desire for your valuable items you may want to add a scheduled personal property endorsement to your homeowner's policy. In most cases scheduled personal property is not subject to a deductible and the coverage is expanded to cover that property anywhere in the world.

The rock fell right out of my ring!

1

We hear about this multiple times throughout the year. These are the most painful phone calls for us to receive, "I don't know how it happened! I just looked at my ring and the diamond is missing." Or, "I have misplaced my ring, necklace or bracelet." We know that the loss of a sentimental item such as that can be devastating. Although we can't eliminate the emotional loss of such an event we can help with the financial loss.

Huh? What did you say?

Hearing aids are another item that often times are best covered by scheduling them on your home policy. Hearing aids are easy to lose or misplace and by scheduling them on your homeowners policy you can eliminate your deductible.

Oh, someone else liked your bike too!

The Portland Metro area is in love with the bicycle. In fact, some may love your bike more than you and will help themselves to it. Again, if your bike is covered by the basic homeowners policy you may face a deductible that is close or equal to the value of your bike. You can eliminate the deductible by scheduling it.

Coverage that fits your needs.

A scheduled personal property endorsement is tailored to meet your specific needs. The name of this insurance may not exactly roll off your tongue, but knowing it is in place can certainly help you sleep better at night. Give us a call if you think you may have a concern regarding your personal property. We would love to talk with you before a loss might occur so we can make sure you have the proper coverage for your valuables.
